

Sept. 6, 1971

Dear Mom & Dad,

I am returning the dollar bill to you as I don't think it is of any special value. Maybe you should sell it to Stella for five dollars and then give the money to little Charlie.

Anyway, I am glad to see that you are keeping your eyes peeled for unusual money.

The big storm that moved up the coast gave us a lot of rain - 5" in one day, but we are far enough inland so that the high winds missed us.

We are staying home and relaxing this weekend. Saturday was very pleasant so we played tennis and then barbecued a chicken for dinner. Yesterday we went to Washington to see a show. A theatre is having a festival of older movies and we saw "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie" and enjoyed it. The city was nearly deserted because everyone leaves over the long weekend. On top of that there have been ten percent fewer tourists here than last year.

---

Today it was foggy in the morning but soon turned sunny, very warm, and humid. It will be 90° today and I don't think we can play tennis. We have been watching the tournaments on T.V., but there isn't much to do today except sit in front of the fan and read our books.

Jim

---